CHRISTMAS EVE BRINGS PEACE PRAYER

'Ye Shall Find the Babe...Lying in a Manger'

CHRISTMAS REALLY BELONGS TO CHILDREN. It is the uninhibited squeal of delight, the dancing from joy unbounded and the big smile on a small face glowing through tears of happiness that are the rewards of adults during this holiest of seasons. And, as in ages past, it is a time of year for a venerable adult to read from the Holy Book the story of the Christ Child's birth in a lowly manger. In the picture above a Good Hope great-grandmother, Mrs. A. W. Rife, reads the story from the Book of Luke to the sons and daughters of her grandchildren, Mrs. Harold Bakenhester, Route, 3, and Edwin Braden, Route 6. The children, from left to right, are, Tominy Braden, Jack Bakenhester, Gale Braden, Eugene, Brenda Sue and Ruth Ann Bakenhester.

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was lirst governor of Syria.)

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, (because he was of the house and lineage of

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling cloth es, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone confidently took a visitor by the round about them: and they were sore hand Monday and led the way to hindercontrol with them in the state of the left.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the to save him from dying of cancer.

many things about the dismal lack of freedom among the average Russians and also authors, many of the upper class thinkers and writers, who are held in ironfisted control.

For many years one of the best known American Communist artists was the novelist Howard Fast, who has indicated that he has had a realistic awakening.

Though he did not formally join the Communist Party until 1943, he long had been a dedicated passionate Marxist. He had come to the belief that Communism, to use his own terms, was "an edifice dedicated singularly and irrevocably to the ending of all war, injustice, hunger and human suffering- and to the goal of the brotherhood of man.'

His novels which sold largely throughout the world, reflected this view in one way or another.

Then came the fateful day- June 5, 1956 when the New York Times, published the long full text of the "secret" Krushchev speech which told in lurid detail of the terrors and brutalities perpetuated under Stalin. This, for Mr. Fast and a number of other American Communist Party members, meant the parting of the ways. Now he tells his story in a book, "The Naked God," just published. A sectin of it was printed not long ago in an issue of The Saturday Review, under the title "On Leaving the Communist Party."

It is a somber, compelling and sometimes horrifying tale. Poverty, hunger and despair brought this highly gifted writer to the left - wing movement. He accepted, apparently in full willingness, the harsh disciplines of Communism. These disciplines are held by the threat of expulsion from the party- and to a sincere and devoted Communist, Fast explains, ".... expulsion was almost as bad as deathand sometimes worse."

He writes of party leaders under the Stalinist structure. A leader, Fast says, is a man (and his name is legion) "who dirties the page of history and blackens all the colors of man's dreams." He ". . . eschews original opinions as the devil himself." He is contemptuous and threatening to those below him in the hierarchy, and a boot - licker of those above.

Fast writes: "Not even the warden of Even a mild criticism of Communist policy, on the part of a writer, could and would bring down denunciation of a sort that "...a civilized person would reserve for pathological criminals." Any kind of lying and deception was used if it would serve party ends.

This author cites a famous Soviet writer who, during a visit to New York, was asked what had happened to a number of other Soviet writers of whom nothing had been heard for a long time. He assured his audience that all were alive, well and working, and actually described in detail the works each was supposed to be engaged upon. This was a pure and deliberate fabrication. All the writers had been executed or were in prison.

Fast's defection from the party is all the more significant because, for so long, he made great personal sacrifices, financial and otherwise, to keep the Communist faith. Even when he could no longer find a commercial publisher, he kept on writing and published his own books— an enterprise which is almost invariably a failure for an author. Yet, he says, he was luckier than his counterpart in the Soviet Union itself. For he was allowed to live and write even while he fought the policies of his own government. Now, Howard Fast tells us, he has found freedom. MIAMI, Fla. (A) - Probably every cab driver in town scanned the interior of his cab Sunday when a dispatcher called:

"All drivers, check back seats. Lady lost $20,000 in jewels." Two drivers hit pay dirt.

Bill McGuire found the gems and returned them to I. Florin, a Miami Beach hotel guest.

Driver Melvin Saltzman found a brief case containing $365 cash and $1,000 in checks belonging to George Cardoze, a Panama businessman.

And Christmas comes this year, as it came last year, and the year before that. And it will come next year and the year after that. For what Christmas denotes to the human soul is not gifts and Santa Claus, and trees, and getting drunk

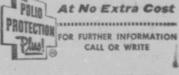

Christ mas is the festival of love, not the heathen festival to Venus but the festival to the God of love, to remind us that come what may when man has purified his mind and washed his soul, he will love his neighbor, the wise neighbor and the foolish neighbor, the rich neighbor and the poor neighbor. For in the bo m of God, all his children are equally beloved.

"Let's Put Christ Back Into Christmas" should be much more than just a slogan, a heading of a message or even a thought for Christmas time.

In this age of Sputniks, missiles and space stations, the American people tend to think of almost everything on a commercial basis.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

ANXIOUSLY, Santa Claus and Mrs. Claus scan the black sky. Suddenly they see a white dot. It grows bigger, bigger and bigger! It's Eski--flashing down toward the earth with all the lost letters safely scooped up!

QUICKLY, Santa and Mrs. Claus open the letters, read them and send the orders to the toy warehouses. It's Christmas Eve and not a moment must be lost if all the good children are to get the gifts they have asked for.

CHRISTMAS EVE midnight is only a few hours away. So it's rush-rush-rush to get all the gifts tagged properly with the right names and addresses of all good children and, then, into Santa's sack of toys they go!

ENGLEWOOD, N. J .- A man of a hundred faces is John Griggs of Englewood. On meeting Griggs, people invariably puzzle, "Haven't I met you some place before?" The answer is "Yes." For his face has appeared on the television screen in innumerable capacities.

Griggs is the doctor who holds up a bottle of medicine and tells you earnestly of its merits. Or he's a husband assuring his wife her scrubby hands have beautified with Swunderful Hand Lotion. He may be the family man worried about sludge in his car. Or the guy who seeks to sell you United States Savings Bonds.

To confound the viewer more, Griggs might appear during the evening as a dramatic actor, appearing completely different, playing a pompous producer or a meany you'd like to hiss.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

GIFT TO HOSPITAL-Members of Gamma chapter of Phi Beta Psi sorority recently presented a hemofuge to Fayette Memorial Hospital as the latest of their contributions to the institution. The hemofuge will be used in the hospital's diagnostic laboratory and will facilitate handling of the blood for transfusions. The sorority's national project is cancer research, and the local group is also aiding the program of the Council for Retarded Children's program. Miss Shirley Hart, hospital laboratory technician, shows Phi Beta Psi members how the hemofuge works. Watching from left to right are Mrs. C. G. Hayes, Mrs. Eddie McCoy and Mrs. Grove Davis.
